FREE GUIDE

The Delegation & Lead-Capture Playbook

How to delegate like a pro, collect emails on autopilot, and pipe every single lead straight into GoHighLevel.

A step-by-step system for busy business owners.

PRESENTED BY

EZ Marketing Consulting Group

YOU CAN'T SCALE WHAT YOU WON'T HAND OFF

Stop doing $10 work in a $1,000 business

Most owners stay stuck for one reason: they're the bottleneck. Every lead, every follow-up, every reminder runs through them. This playbook fixes that. You'll learn a simple framework to decide what to delegate, a repeatable way to collect emails from strangers, and the exact steps to send those leads into GoHighLevel (GHL) so nurturing happens without you.

> What you'll walk away with
> A delegation framework, a working email-capture funnel, and a GHL pipeline that tags, welcomes, and follows up with every new lead — automatically.

Inside this guide

- Part 1 — The Delegation Framework: what to hand off (and to whom).
- Part 2 — The Email Collection Machine: lead magnets, landing pages & forms that convert.
- Part 3 — Wiring It Into GoHighLevel: forms, workflows, tags & automated follow-up.
- Part 4 — Your 7-Day Quick-Start Checklist.

PART 1

The Delegation Framework

Delegation isn't dumping tasks — it's transferring outcomes. Use the 4-D filter on everything that lands on your plate:

The 4-D Filter
Delete	If it doesn't move revenue or reputation, kill it.
Delegate	Someone else can do it 80% as well? Hand it off with a checklist.
Defer	Important but not urgent? Schedule it, don't carry it.
Do	Only the few things that truly need you stay on your plate.

The first 5 things every owner should delegate

- Inbox & lead replies — a VA responding from templates within 5 minutes.
- Appointment setting & reminders — booking, confirming, and no-show follow-up.
- Social posting & content repurposing — turning one idea into ten posts.
- Data entry & CRM hygiene — keeping contacts, tags, and stages clean.
- Follow-up sequences — the money is in the follow-up, and it's the easiest to systemize.

> Delegate the outcome, not just the task
>
> Instead of "reply to leads," define the win: "every new lead gets a reply within 5 minutes and a booked call or a tagged reason why not." Then record a 2-minute Loom, write a one-page SOP, and let your person own it.

PART 2

The Email Collection Machine

You can't nurture a lead you never captured. The goal is simple: trade something valuable for an email address, then let automation take over.

1. Offer a lead magnet worth trading an email for

- A checklist, template, mini-guide, or discount — solve ONE specific problem.
- Promise a fast, obvious win ("The 5-minute lead reply script").
- Deliver instantly on the thank-you page and by email.

2. Put it behind a focused landing page

- One headline, one promise, one form — remove the navigation and distractions.
- Ask for the minimum: first name + email converts far better than a long form.
- Add proof: a testimonial, a result, or a simple "trusted by" line.

3. Capture with a form that feeds your CRM

The form should do two jobs at once: deliver the freebie AND drop the contact into GoHighLevel with the right tag. That hand-off is what turns a one-time visitor into a lead you can follow up with for months.

> The one metric to watch
>
> Opt-in rate. A focused landing page should convert 20–40% of visitors. If you're below that, tighten the headline and shrink the form before you spend a dollar more on traffic.

PART 3

Wiring It Into GoHighLevel

Here's the exact flow to send every captured email into GHL and let it do the follow-up for you. Do it once and it runs forever.

Step 1 — Create the contact destination

In GHL, decide where leads land: a Smart List and a Pipeline stage (e.g. "New Lead"). This is the home base every opt-in flows into.

Step 2 — Connect your form

Either build the form/landing page inside GHL, or connect your own page. Three common ways to pass a lead in: (a) GHL's native Forms & Funnels, (b) an Inbound Webhook that receives the submission, or (c) the GHL API / a Private Integration token that upserts the contact server-side.

Step 3 — Tag on entry

Auto-apply a tag like "Lead Magnet – Delegation Guide" so you always know the source. Tags are how you segment and trigger the right automation.

Step 4 — Build the welcome workflow

Trigger: Contact Tag added. Actions: send the guide by email, wait 10 minutes, send a "did you get it?" nudge, then a short 3–4 email value sequence that ends with a call-to-action.

Step 5 — Route & notify

Notify your setter (or VA) of every new lead by SMS/email so a human can reach out fast while automation runs in the background.

Step 6 — Measure & improve

Watch opt-in rate, email open rate, and booked calls. Tune one thing at a time — headline, offer, or first email.

> Pro move: delegate the whole machine
>
> Once the workflow is built, your job is oversight, not operation. Hand the daily lead responses and CRM upkeep to a trained VA using your SOPs — you review the numbers weekly and keep selling.

PART 4

Your 7-Day Quick-Start Checklist

	Day	Action
	Day 1	List every recurring task; run each through the 4-D filter.
	Day 2	Pick your #1 lead magnet and write the one-win headline.
	Day 3	Build the landing page: one promise, one form (name + email).
	Day 4	Set up GHL — Smart List, pipeline stage, and the entry tag.
	Day 5	Connect the form to GHL and send a test lead end-to-end.
	Day 6	Build the welcome + follow-up workflow and delivery email.
	Day 7	Write the SOP, record a Loom, and hand daily lead ops to your VA.

Want us to build it for you?

EZ Marketing Consulting Group builds delegation systems, high-converting landing pages, and done-for-you GoHighLevel automations so your leads never fall through the cracks. Let's set up your machine.

Reach us at ez-marketing.us • info@ez-marketing.us

© EZ Marketing Consulting Group. This guide is provided free for educational purposes. GoHighLevel is a trademark of its respective owner.